HANGMAN'S DAY was duly celebrated yesterday by two executions in Missouri, one in Illinois, one in Louisiana, and one in Texas. If a person ever needs confirmation of the brute instincts that linger in the breast of man, he has but to recall the thought of a picnic excursion going out to see a poor mortal choked to death on the scaffold. Train loads of people went from Kansas City and Sedalia to Nevada City (Mo.) yesterday, and the execution was arranged in a sort of natural amphitheater, so that all could get a good sight.

IT seems to be a rather novel idea of Judge Belden's, of San José, that, when twelve and fourteen-year-old boys are convicted of infractions of the law, they ought to be sent to the State's Prison for a long term of years to keep them from evil associations. Did it ever occur to his Honor that the State Prison, where the boys will associate with older and more hardened criminals, may not be the best reformatory in the world? When these boys emerge after serving their five years' sentence, they will be seared and calloused.

WASHINGTON.

Not Very Much Business in Congress,

BUT SOME LIVELY COMMITTEE WORK.

A Breeze in the Committee on Naval Affairs —Forfeited Railroad Grants Under Investigation—Other Notes.

Associated Press Dispatches to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Mr. Bland introduced a bill repealing so much of the act of June 19th, 1879, as provides for the exchange and redemption of subsidiary coins. Referred.

Mr. Dockery, from the Committee on Accounts, reported a joint resolution allowing discharged employés of the House one month's extra pay. After considerable debate the resolution was defeated—yeas, 71; nays, 189.

Private business having been disposed of, the House resumed consideration of the Presidential succession bill.

After considerable debate Mr. Caldwell of Tennessee demanded the previous question, which, after a little parliamentary fencing, was ordered. After several attempts to recommit and amend the bill it passed—yeas 183, nays 77, precisely as it came from the Senate. The unanimous vote was cast by Republicans, aided by Messrs. Bennett and Green of New Jersey. Among the Republicans who voted with the Democrats in the affirmative were Messrs. Herman and Markham.

Adjourned till Monday.

WASHINGTON.

A Senatorial Caucus—To Fight or Not to Fight.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The Republican Senators met in caucus for the purpose of comparing views with regard to the right of the Senate to information as to the President's reasons for making removals from office. The fact was stated that many of the inquiries addressed to heads of departments by Chairmen of committees remain unanswered, but up to this time indicate no purpose to refuse to give this information. No formal proposition was made, and no action was taken. While a wide variety of opinions found expression with regard to the propriety of raising a formal issue with the administration upon this question, a majority were of the opinion that should the information sought not ultimately be forthcoming, Republicans will, in justice to the men who have been suspended or removed for supposed cause, be required to take some formal action in the Senate to secure information or an avowal by the President that he will not give the reasons for making removals. There was a unanimous concurrence in opinion that the removed officials have a right to know what charges were preferred for political reasons or mal-administration of their trusts, and it is the Senate's duty to secure information if possible.

FLANNEL AND BLANKETS.

Bids for supplying the navy with flannel and blankets were opened yesterday. The California Woolen Mills had bids in for both articles. Their bid was the lowest for flannel, they offering eighty-four cents and eighty-six cents for the two grades. The entire quantity of flannel to be furnished is 125,000 yards. A New York firm put in the lowest bid for blankets.

CONSIDERING THE LAND GRANT.

The House Committee on Public Lands is considering the bill for forfeiture of various railroad land grants. The forfeiture of the Atlantic and Pacific grant of 30,000,000 acres will be considered to-day, and the bill for forfeiture of the land grant of the Southern Pacific from the Colorado river to San Francisco will be considered next Tuesday. The California and Oregon grant will be taken up when these are disposed of.

SECRETARY LAMAR WILL INVESTIGATE IT.

At the urgent request of Senator Stanford and Representative Barbour, Secretary Lamar has promised a speedy investigation of the land issue raised by Commissioner Sparks in the matter of the Atlantic and Pacific grants. Congressman Markham represented to the Secretary that, so long as the title remained unsettled, the land was useless as a desert, little many people were anxious to build up homes there.

A SENSATION IN THE NAVAL COMMITTEE.

The meeting of the House Naval Affairs Committee took a sensational turn to-day. Boutelle desired to make inquiring about the dismissal of ex-Union soldiers and sailors from the Norfolk navy yard and the appointment of ex-Confederate soldiers in their places and to the statement that certain inscriptions commemorative of victories over Confederates had been defaced, was directed to be stricken out. Boutelle objected to this action, and a warm discussion ensued. Mr. Wise, of Virginia, made a speech denouncing the resolution and impugning the motives of its mover. He insinuated that the resolution was introduced from a desire to make party capital and expressed the opinion that it should be amended so as to allow a general investigation into the conduct of the navy yards. He argued that mere newspaper reports were the sole foundation for the proposed inquiry, and that it was not becoming the dignity of Congress to heed such stories.

Mr. Boutelle vigorously defended the resolution. He said that he had been assured by a brother member that the publication was substantially correct. He wanted the matter investigated.

Mr. Thomas pointed out that the resolution was not for investigation. It was simply an inquiry, and if the story was without foundation, the Navy Department could easily prick the bubble.

Mr. Hewitt contended that the investigation should be general. Republicans had been discharged from other navy yards on the Eastern coast, and why not at Norfolk?

Mr. Hewitt inquired if it would be contended that the victors were not entitled to the spoils.

Mr. Thomas acquiesced in that assumption, but said in the case under consideration it was a question, not of politics, not whether a Republican had been displaced by a Democrat, but whether the statute giving preference to Union soldiers had been violated. He wanted to know whether Union soldiers had been discharged to make way for rebel soldiers, and whether memorial stones commemorating Union victories had been obliterated.

Mr. Hewitt inquired if the gentleman would have tolerated a Confederate monument commemorating the victory of Bull Run.

Mr. Thomas replied he would have it pulled down. Fortunately, the rebels failed in their object. He was not ashamed of having fought for the Union.

Other members of the committee expressed themselves in strong language, and the matter went without action on the resolution, which will come up for consideration at the next meeting.

Telephone Stock Tumbles.

BOSTON, Jan. 15.—In the Stock Board to-day telephone stock, as was to be expected, declined, owing to the decision at Washington. The result of the Washington movement will not, in the opinion of the Bell people, have much, if any, influence upon the financial operations of the company, yet the decision sent Bell stock from 172 down to 160 bid. A rally occurred about noon, when sales were made at 163. New England telephone stock declined from 36½ to 34, but afterwards rallied to 35. Erie settled back from 31 to 29¾.

A Denial from General Sherman.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 15.—The Sun to-morrow will publish a letter from General Sherman, denying the expression credited to him in the December number of the North American Review. He says: "That I could have written the positive expression 'Had C. F. Smith lived, Grant would have disappeared from history' is an utter impossibility. I don't believe any man living or dead has borne more willing testimony to General Grant's great qualities, especially as demonstrated at Henry, Donelson, Shiloh and Vicksburg, than myself.'

Have Engaged Some Gold.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Brown Bros. & Co. have engaged $502,000 in gold, to be shipped to-morrow by the steamer Aurania.

A SCENE OF HORROR.

Attending the Hanging of a Negro in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 15.—Charles Wilson (colored) was hanged this morning for the murder of Wm. A. David, second mate of the steamer "Fannie Twaturn," July 31st, 1885, by hitting him on the head with a rock. Wilson had been discharged and ordered away from the steamer, but returned to get some money he claimed was owing him. After the trap had been sprung the body for a moment remained motionless, and then there was enacted a scene of horror which chilled the blood of all who witnessed it. Two doctors, one on either side, were each holding a wrist, when the violent contortions of the hanging figure shoved them aside and before they could regain their hold upon the man, whose actions showed he was in full possession of consciousness of all that was going on, he made frantic struggles to release himself. His right hand shot up, clutched the rope and held it firmly. It seemed as if the man must die by slow degrees from strangulation, but one of the doctors succeeded in disengaging the hand, and in a short time the body hung a corpse.

A HANGING IN ILLINOIS.

BELLEVILLE, Ill., Jan. 15.—Noah Merriman (colored) was hanged here at noon to-day for the murder of his wife.

A MISSOURI HANGING.

NEVADA, Mo., Jan. 15.—Henry S. Stair, who was hanged to-day, was visited by his father about 9 o'clock last night, after which he spent the most of his time writing until 4 o'clock this morning, when he went to sleep. He awoke at 8:15. Large crowds of people surged through the streets all the morning, tramping between the jail and gallows, which was erected in a ravine forming a natural amphitheatre, about a mile from the jail. Trains from Sedalia and Kansas City arrived at 10:30 bringing hundreds of people to witness the execution which will take place this afternoon.

The crime for which Stair is to be executed was cold and cold-blooded in the extreme. Stair and his companion, a woman named Manette Osborne, murdered Jacob Sewall and his son while asleep, outside of the city, in camp waggons. They were tried and both convicted of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to be hanged together. After stay of execution, however, was obtained in the woman's case, and she was granted a new trial. Stair spoke from the scaffold for half an hour, protesting his innocence and the innocence of the woman implicated, saying they were victims of circumstances. The drop fell at 1:28, and in fifteen minutes the man was pronounced lifeless, and the body was turned over to the man's father, who will take it to Marshall county, Indiana, to-night for interment. Ten thousand people witnessed the execution, and good order prevailed.

BY LOUISIANA.

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., Jan. 15.—William George (colored) was executed within the inclosure of the jail here to-day for the murder of Peggy Johnston, in August, 1882. He was perfectly self-possessed, and acknowledged that he feigned insanity during the trial. At the last moment he cried out, "I did kill Peggy Johnston." His neck was broken by the fall, but from some cause his throat was gashed and the blood spattered all around. George was once quite a prominent politician at Vicksburg. He was a pension agent, and presided that he would be a leader of his race.

IN TEXAS.

COTULLA, Texas, Jan. 15.—Jose Maria Mondiola, who murdered Hodges, the Southern Pacific railroad station agent eight months ago, was hanged here this afternoon. Mondiola displayed great nerve and professed penitence for his crime. He died in four minutes.

THE WATER FAMINE.

Cleveland a Bad Place for a Temperance Movement.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 15.—The situation, so far as the water famine is concerned, remained unchanged until 10 o'clock this morning, when it was found that water was entering the tunnel, and the engine was started at the pumping station. This is still working slowly and indications are more favorable than for many hours. A great majority of the saloons and drinking resorts which depend upon the city for water, have shut down. Nearly all the courts have adjourned, as steam heating facilities are frozen up. Hundreds of teams are engaged in hauling water from the lake with which to supply thirsty families. Should the present favorable condition of affairs continue, another engine will be put in operation and the pumping station as soon as practicable.

THE WATER COMING.

All danger from the water famine is now believed to be past. Two pumps are working eight strokes per minute, and they can furnish 6 000,000 gallons of water in twenty-four hours. This, it is thought, will supply the city's needs if care is taken, although 24,500,000 gallons were used on Wednesday. Water works officials think the stream in the tunnel will gradually increase in size, and that all the pumps can be started again in a day or two.

WHO ARE THE HEIRS?

A Fine-haired Case for Detroit Lawyers to Haggle Over.

DETROIT, Jan. 15.—Unusual complications, growing out of the fate of Frank Knoch, his wife and their two children, who, a couple of weeks ago were murdered and their bodies burned in the ruins of their home, developed here to-day. A short time after the tragedy relatives of the family began to dispute over the little property that had been left. Last week Gus and Herman Knoch filed a petition for administration of the estate, which is valued at $4000. To-day a counter petition was filed by an attorney, asking the administration of the estate of Frank Knoch's children. This petition is on behalf of the grandmother, two uncles and three aunts of the deceased children, the theory being that Frank Knoch was murdered first, the two children thus becoming his heirs, and their heirs being the two grandmothers. The paternal grandmother having since died, left her children heirs. The whole case turns on the question as to who of the family were first killed.

SAN JOSE.

An Anti-Coolie Convention Called—Boys Sentenced.

SAN JOSE, Jan. 15.—The Anti-Coolie League last night resolved to call a convention, to meet here in February, also to circulate a petition for signers, asking Congress to rescind the Burlingame treaty.

FAVORS LONG SENTENCES.

Judge Belden this morning sentenced Calvin Campbell and Walter You, boys, aged respectively 12 and 14 years, who were convicted of burglary, to five years in the State Prison. In pronouncing sentence the Judge said that he favored long sentences in the case of boys whose family and other associations have been bad, in order that time for reform by means of separation from evil influences may be given.

Championship Chess.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—The third game in the Steinitz-Zukertort championship chess match was played here to-day, each having before scored a victory. The attendance was larger than at the preceding sessions, and Zukertort had the move. Speculation was rife as to the opening which he would choose. He selected the queen's gambit. The game lasted five hours and a half. Zukertort won in forty-seven moves.

Racy Put Out the Flames.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—At the opera house this evening, during the performance of Comedy and Tragedy, a candle on one of the tables fell and set fire to the table-cloth. Mary Anderson, hearing the cries that at once arose from the auditorium, rushed to the back stage and smothered the flames, amid tumultuous applause from the audience, which had become slightly panicky.

A Pastor Convicted.

JERSEY CITY, Jan. 15.—Rev. Mr. Beistner, who has been on trial before a jury of his fellow-pastors, charged with criminal intimacy with Miss Ida Downs, was to-night found guilty.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Carnarvon, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, Resigns.

THE PECULIAR FIX OF MR. GOUNOD.

His Nemesis Will Not Let Up, Even While He Presents His Oratorio Before the Queen.

Associated Press Dispatches to The Times.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The resignation of Lord Carnarvon was the principal topic this afternoon among members of Parliament, and especially among Irish members, few of whom believe it is possible that the Lord Lieutenantcy is to be abolished forthwith. The majority accept the announcement as true, but are divided in opinion whether to regard it as a blessing or as something to deplore and constituting another Irish grievance. Several Irish members deeply regret the change on the ground that the resignation of Lord Carnarvon would leave the affairs for the time in Ireland to be administered by three gentlemen, two of whom are known to be fervid anti-national leagurers. It means that Lord Carnarvon's guild rule is to be superseded by the iron hands of Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, Commander-in-Chief, Vice Chancellor Chatterton, and the Right Honorable J. T. Bell, Ex-Lord Chancellor of Ireland. One of the trio is an Orangeman. It is asserted that Mr. Bell will be the executive official.

ALAS, POOR GOUNOD!

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—A Londonesque special says: Two gentlemen wrote to Mrs. Weldon on behalf of M. Gounod, suggesting that she relax in her pursuit of the composer, and allow him to come to England, in order to conduct the performance of his Mors et Vita in Albert Hall, which is to be given at the Queen's request. Mrs. Weldon has replied that she is astonished at the impudence of this request. She has just returned from Paris, and is setting the law in motion, by every means in her power, with a view of obtaining damages for libel with which she charges Gounod. She declares that, if he sets foot in England, she will have him arrested at once. Gounod, when interviewed on the subject, was silent as to the lawsuit and its cause, but complained of Mrs. Weldon's incessant persecution for twelve years. Gounod has asked the Archbishop to allow him to place his writing table at the foot of the altar, where Joan of Arc stood in Rheims Cathedral, when Charles the Dauphin was crowned in 1429, in order that he may derive inspiration from the position in writing a mass.

BRADLAUGH SWORN IN.

LONDON, January 15.—Bradlaugh's swearing in passed off without noise, though with some amusing incidents. He seized one of the testaments as soon as they were brought to him and proceeded to swear himself in. It was an amusing sight, as he was getting redder and redder, clasping the gorgeously bound testament to his breast. Sir Erskine Way made him swear again, and carefully scrutinized his boisterous kiss. His appeal before the House of Lords will be hastened. If the verdict is against him the Government will prosecute him for sitting and voting, but if it is in his favor the disgraceful struggle will be over. The Commercial's London special says: "It is asserted authoritively that the Government, acting upon the report of legal advisors of the Crown, has decided to take legal proceedings against Bradlaugh for sitting to be a declaration of marriage, delivered by defendant to the clerk of court, be transcribed, by inserting the words "Canceled by virtue of this decree" across it; and that said document remain in the custody of the clerk, subject to further order of the court.

TYLER WILL APPEAL.

George W. Tyler, leading counsel for defendant in the case of Sharon vs. Hill, which was recently decided in favor of the plaintiff by the United States Circuit Court, stated to-day that he will appeal from the decision of the court, which orders the cancellation of the alleged marriage contract.

The Movement in Georgetown.

GEORGETOWN, Jan. 15.—The citizens of Georgetown and vicinity met last night in the court house and completed arrangements for organizing a rally to be held on the 22d inst., in favor of the anti-Chinese Government. The remarks made were temperate in character, but a determination was evinced to stand by the movement and make it effective. L. Bryant, County Supervisor, was chosen President and C. H. Cromwell, principal of the grammar school, Secretary. Fifty-two members signed the roll.

Governor Morgan's Pictures.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—The sale of the late ex-Governor Morgan's pictures was concluded last night. They numbered 232, and brought over $80,000. Prices were fair. The highest, $7,000, was Jules Breton's "Britany Washer women." Many of the pictures go to other cities.

In Straitened Circumstances.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—A Journal of Commerce leader says: "There is some reason to expect that, within three months, the Panama Canal will be abandoned as a failure, unless the French Government chooses to help it with a loan or guaranty."

"THOMPSON'S TROUBADOURS."

A Unique Entertainment in the Jail Last Night.

"Come over to the county jail at 7 o'clock to-night and you'll see something funny," said Deputy Sheriff Martin G. Aguirre to a TIMES reporter yesterday. "The boys in there, give a grand concert this evening. I bought them a fife to-day, and there is a fellow who can play it right up to the handle."

So at the appointed hour the reporter was on hand, and joined a small audience in the entrance in front of the big cell down stairs. First Aguirre got a talented minstrel transferred from a small cell to the "stage," and the "company," which styles itself "The Thompson Troubadours," in honor of the quaint, big-hearted old jailer, was complete. The reporter drew a chair up before the heavy bars and looked through. It was a Dorsequa picture, and suggested nothing so much as a peep into Fagin's den, or some other rendezvous in the slums of a great city. The ill-looking, contracted, low-studded room, through whose bars the light of a single gas-jet in the entry straggled; the long row of tattered garments hanging on nails along the wall; the densely-packed mass of faces around the bars; the tousled hair, the dilapidated dress and rashness of the twenty-eight men there, and their not prepossessing faces—all joined to make a notable scene. There were black and white, old and young, fat and lean, intelligent and stupid, plain drunks, vags, petit larcenists and fighters there. Most of them squatted on the floor or leaned against the walls. The company embraced about a dozen men, led by a bright fellow named Ryan, the fifer. He apologized for the tone of his instrument, which was new and dry yet. He played it very cleverly, however. First there was a medley by the chorus, with fife accompaniment, comprising morceals of "In the Morning," "Good-bye, My Lover, Good-bye," etc. Then a short prisoner named Thorpe came out and sang "The Spanish Cavalier" in a very fierce fashion. At the last verse, wherein the hero foresees his death on the battlefield, the singer made an admirable stage fall. Then in rushed the talented sot known universally as Bill Shakespeare. His real name is said to be McCready, and he is a man of education and parts, drowned by whisky. He had a paper helmet on his head, and a chairrung dagger stuck in a towel belt. In tragic style he recited a poem appropriate to the occasion, and then the soliloquy of classius over Cæsar's body, at last stabbing himself and rolling over the corpse of the Spanish cavalier. Then the master of ceremonies cried: "Take away the stiffs," and the suspended stage of mortality. John O'Brien danced a very superior clog; and a boy sang a threnody on the Erie canawl. A dilapidated Swede, named Preso, sang a Swedish melody, and sang it very prettily, too. The air was as quaint and sweet as the words were unpronounceable, and his voice was round, strong and sympathetic. The negro darkey in the cell sang "Ring de Old Church Bell;" and later had a tug-of-war with a companion, holding the rope in his teeth, and thus dragging his opponent all over the room. One hard-looking case sang, to great applause, the song, "Though I'm Poor, I'm a Gentleman Still"—recounting feats of remarkable honesty. Shakespeare came out in character, and recited Richard III. till you couldn't rest. Then there was a grand quadrille to the music of the fife; more clog dancing, more songs, and a humorous recitation—the latter very well done by Ryan, the impresario. He also played a clever fife solo. The closing piece was a song by him, entitled "The Days of '49." It was in the character of a vagrant survivor of the days of the Argonauts, and enumerated how all the "gang" had "petered out," one by one, until only the singer was left. How Kalmuck Jim, the gambler, had

"Anted his breath
In a game with death,
In the days of '49,"

how Buffalo Bill, the roarer, had

"Roared out his soul
In a prospect hole,"

into which he fell, and so on for quantity. The entertainment lasted an hour, and was enjoyed by performers and audience. Encores were numerous. The well-behaved little old jail, now jammed with 96 prisoners, would be a perfect terror but for the kindliness of the jailer, which has access to the disposition of the prisoners to "make the best of it" all proper latitude.

The Society at Last Organized for Business.

The adjourned meeting of the Los Angeles Society for the Prevention o Cruelty to Animals was held in Bryson Hall at 3:30 yesterday afternoon, with a good attendance. Six Directors to serve for the ensuing year were elected as follows: T. Lee, H. H. Boyce, Chas. C. Davis, Mrs. C. M. Severance, Mrs. J. H. Leal, Mrs. M. S. Wills. The following committee was appointed to procure the necessary papers for a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children—it being necessary to have a dual form for this, though the work of mercy to child and brute can be done by the same organization under certain formalities: H. T. Lee, H. H. Boyce, Mrs. O. B. Bird, Mrs. F. A. Gibson, Dr. Dorothea Lummis. Fifteen new members' extraction added, swelling the strength of the society to 75. During a wait, J. C. Daley recited "The Marquise of Carabas" admirably.

After the regular meeting of the society the Board of Directors met, and organized by the appointment of the following officers: President, H. T. Lee; Vice President, H. H. Boyce; Secretary, Dr. Dorothea Lummis; Attorney, Judge Silent.

The society is now duly organized, and will go to work at once. As soon as possible a special officer will be employed to look after the abuses which the society seeks to reform.

AMUSEMENTS.

ALVIN JOSLIN.—There was not only a very large house at the Los Grand last evening, but it was a house bubbling over with good humor. After the rather slim attendance which has prevailed of late, this change for the better was a relief both to the managers and attendants.

The whole performance revolves around Davis's "Alvin Joslin," which deserves to rank as the quaintest New England farmer character ever presented to the American public. The strong point of Davis's acting is its unconventionality. Every body has seen somewhere in actual life, the very "Alvin Joslin" he presents. Uncle Alvin's better half was well taken by Miss E. Howard. Mrs. Davis's "Julia Fred," was acceptably presented. The advent of the famous diamonds, in the second act, created a sensation.

The orchestra was one of the strongest features, furnishing, by way of interludes, a complete instrumental entertainment. The idyl, The Blacksmith in the Woods, was charming. The soloists composing the orchestra are as follows: Frank Butters, violin soloist and musical director; E. E. Nickerson, corpet soloist; John Thornton, double basso soloist; George Ott, slide-trombone soloist; Charles P. Low, xylophone soloist; Carl Boothman, flute and piccolo soloist; George Bent, viola soloist; Charles Lilly, viola soloist. There will be matinee and evening performances to-day. Large houses may be looked for.

THE MEXICAN TYPICAL ORCHESTRA—Of this company the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, April 31, says: "The famous Mexican Typical Orchestra gave its initial concert at the Odeon last night before a small audience. The extraordinary merit of the orchestra, as well as of the individual soloists, should have filled every nook and corner of the house. It is an orchestra which in point of precise effects can hardly be excelled. The members of the orchestra appeared in their original Charro's costumes, and the stage setting was truly in the nature of a bright Mexican musical scene. The instruments were composed of three or four violins, a flute, several mandolins, guitars, zithers, surmounted all by a glorious harp. The peculiar, weird effect of these delicate string instruments was impressive; it was really surprising. Among the soloists, Sr. A. Figueroa on the violin, deserves most distinguished mention. He played the Payne.

In yesterday's TIMES we reproduced portions of the scathing open letter recently addressed by Col. Donavin, a well-known "brainy" Democratic politician of Ohio, to Senator Payne of that State, better known as "Coal-Oil Payne"—a man with a sack, which he opened wide, and with its contents bought his way into the United States Senate, to the eternal disgrace of a noble State and of the highest branch of the national legislature, and the Democratic party, of which he is still a shining light. Colonel Donavin's letter is the sensation of the day in the East, and the direct, grave, terrible charges he makes against Senator Payne and the men who corruptly put him where he is, officially, call for investigation by the United States Senate. How that body, or the Senator affected, can ignore such charges, is past comprehension.

Following are further points about this disgraceful affair:

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The Tribune's Washington special says: The letter of Simpson K. Donavin, of Ohio, which charges Senator Payne with having obtained his election to the United States Senate through corruption and bribery, is one of the principal topics of conversation among politicians. The charges are so specific, and they are printed in such a conspicuous manner in one of the most reputable newspapers of the country, that it is difficult to see how a reply to them can be avoided. I saw Payne to-day. He seems to wear a troubled look and evidently was not happy; he managed to exclaim, laughingly: "O, those charges of Donavin's; why, I have not even read them! What he says is beneath notice. I never met the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette; have not for years, and shall not do so now. I cannot afford to take any notice of this matter."

If Senator Payne does not seek vindication at the hands of his colleagues his silence will hardly convince those who have read Donavin's charges, that they rest upon nothing more substantial than mere rumor. What Donavin asserts is, that several members of the Ohio State Senate received from $2,000 to $5,000 each to vote for Payne, and that members of the House received from $1,200 to $2,500 each. He goes further and gives the names of the men bribed and the amounts paid them. It is a delicate matter, of course, for another Senator to demand an investigation which involves one of his colleagues, especially if that colleague is himself willing to submit to inquiry. It would be against all precedent, it is said, for Sherman to move in the matter, and yet there are political, if no higher considerations, which call for prompt action in this instance. Sherman's departure to-night for Ohio is said not to be altogether for the purpose of thanking the members of the State Legislature for his re-election. It may be that after consultation with the leaders of the party there, he will change his mind and bring the matter to the notice of the United States Senate.

Mr. Payne, it seems, has lofully assumed the position that he will take no notice of the grave and criminal charges made against him, but this superior attitude ill-becomes an honest, pure man, conscious of the integrity of his motives and the probity of his actions. If Mr. Payne is innocent of the grave political crimes openly charged against him by a member of his own party, over his own signature, and with a directness and particularity of specification that, if true, make the charges simply startling and stunning, then he can do no less than ask for an investigation at the hands of his peers, to the end that his innocence may be finally, fully and authoritatively established. Such investigation is due to him whose honor has been openly assailed; due to the Senate of which he is a member; due to the country, which has a right to know whether any of its representatives buy their seats in the Senate; due to the great State of Ohio, with its proud motto of "Imperium in imperio," a noble commonwealth which never before in its history was called upon to bear a disgrace like this; due to the Democratic party, which, if it prizes honor and has not entirely forgotten the meaning of the term "fair play," is bound to take notice of charges so grave, deeply affecting the honor of one of its leading representatives, whose name has even been seriously considered in connection with the first office in the Republic.

John Sherman.

In shining contrast to the dark record which the Democratic senator from Ohio' corruptly made for himself in securing his seat, stands the long and clear record of John Sherman, the great fiscal statesman, whose twenty-five years of service to the Republic have made their indelible impress upon its history. He has just been re-elected, by the unanimous vote of his party in the Legislature, as a Senator of the United States for his fifth term; and in that choice the State did itself, as well as its distinguished son, unchallenged honor. Great Garfield, the martyr President, knew John Sherman, and in the Chicago Republican Convention of 1880, in nominating him for the Presidency, he spoke words of magnetic eloquence in behalf of the other great Ohioan. Some of these splendid utterances we shall republish to-morrow. They were worthy of the subject of them then; they are worthy to be reproduced now.

Some Remarks About a Book.

The Riverside Horticulturist and Press is deeply offended at the TIMES because it announced, as a premium to subscribers, a work on orange culture in California, by Mr. W. A. Spalding, of its staff, without at the same time imparting to the public the important information that the book was issued from the office of the Horticulturist and P. aforesaid. Now this complaint has ground to stand on. It is a fact that the TIMES, in its premium announcement, did not mention the able publishing house of Holt; and for a mighty good reason. The work was so exorably printed—so damnably done typographically, and bound in such a beastly fashion, that we considered it a charity to the truly rural establishment from which it emanated to conceal the fact of its typographical origin. Mr. Spalding's book on the orange is a good work on a subject about which little has been published in permanent form; but the manner in which it has been brought out by the publisher, without the author's approval, is simply disgraceful to the craft. It is not "decent." Notwithstanding the fact that we have offered the book on its literary and intrinsic merits alone, as a premium to subscribers, we feel like apologizing to them for its frightful typographical appearance. Some day, however, poco tempo, a new and creditable edition may be issued, but not from the office of the Horticulturist and P. aforesaid—"not much."

FRUIT EXHIBITS.

List of Those Who Contributed to the Display.

Following is a concise account of exhibitors at the recent Fruit and Flower Festival at Santa Ana:

ANAHEIM.

Anaheim came nobly to the front with the most tastefully arranged display of the festival. Pyramids seemed to run in the minds of the Anaheimites, for they built them of oranges, of flowers, of bottled liquors of all kinds, manufactured from their productive vineyards, and even of barrels and kegs of the same. The exhibitors from Anaheim were:

B. Dreyfus & Co., liquors.
J. H. Geyn, H. Kroeger, Wm. Konig, H. Wehmeyer, A. Langenberger, Mrs. Julia Schneider, Theo. Reiser, F. A. Kern, F. Hartling, Wm. Wille and Albrechi, each had a display of wines or liquors of various kinds.

M. Hoight, citron and canned bananas.
D. W. Fish and Silas Holman, oranges.
W. M. McFadden, oranges and lemons.
L. Parker, F. H. Kenle, Browning Bros. and H. Weider, large display of oranges and lemons.
Julius Schneider, 200 varieties of eggs.
L. Browning, apples.
F. N. Keith, first and second crop apples.
Mrs. R. Parker, dried peaches and apple blossoms.
E. Barr, grab apples and strawberry vines bearing blossoms and ripe berries.
A. J. Mead, white corn.
R. H. Gilliman, English walnuts.
H. J. Northam, peanuts.

The floral display made by the Anaheim exhibitors deserves special mention, and was greatly admired by everybody, and especially by the visitors. Anaheim being represented as a wine country, the people from the East were, in a measure, surprised to see her exhibit so many fine flowers as well as fruit.

SANTA ANA.

The majority of the exhibitors naturally came from the vicinity of Santa Ana, the fair being held here, and it being more convenient for them to make display than parties from a distance. Be it said to the credit of the people of Santa Ana and vicinity, that they spared neither pains nor expense to make the festival a grand success, and well they might, for the results must prove very valuable to every property holder and business man in the valley. The following were the Santa Ana exhibitors and their shows:

Fine bouquets graced the exhibits of Santa Ana; and, among others, Mrs. Dr. Bailey contributed fine flowers.

WESTMINSTER.

The only exhibitor from here was Mrs. C. F. Ward, who showed some strawberries. The people of this section and also of Garden Grove were not well represented at the fair.

Orange did nobly, and made fine exhibits. The exhibitors and their shows were: W. T. Austerwell, two varieties of oranges; Jas. Wright, olive wood. Among these may be mentioned Messrs. A. G. Smith, Dr. W. B. Wall, S. W. Preble, J. H. Kellom, D. B. Newell and others, and they are not selfish, but are always glad to give anyone the benefit of their observations and experiments.

A Democrat on the Postmaster.

To the Editor of the Times—SIR: I notice a card from Mr. Jacob Hommel, in the Herald of January 6th, concerning our postoffice management. I wonder where this man came from, and how much he expects in this world? I have had letters sent to and from every postoffice on this coast, and have been in every postoffice from San Diego to Portland, Oregon, where the place had over 300 inhabitants, and I am pleased to say, in justice to a faithful public servant, that Postmaster Green is the most efficient postmaster on the Pacific coast, and I feel sorry when I go to the postoffice for the throng of people standing in line, waiting their turn to be waited upon. It is a shame and disgrace to keep a man like the obliging old gentleman at the delivery window on his feet twelve hours per day, and lady clerks doing twice the work they should do. Let our Congressmen see to it that our postmaster's salary is raised to four thousand dollars per year; that he is allowed three times the present number of clerks; that we have a postoffice building with room enough to do the business in, and pay the clerks decent salaries. Then there will be no chance for fault-finding against those that run the office. Don't let me be understood to be advocating our postmaster. I would fire him out before night if I had the power, and put a Democrat in his place, and the meanest one I could find, if they did not raise the salary to at least $4000 per year. Only wishing to do justice to a Republican, not desiring to retain any of them in office, I remain one of the old school, who realizes that "to the victor belong the spoils!" JACKSON DEMOCRAT.

THE G. T. IN SANTA BARBARA.

How He Hails There To Rest and Grow Strong.

A TOURIST'S LETTER.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., December 3, 1885—The health-seeker or other traveler on first landing on the Asiatic side of the Pacific ocean is given by the European-Americans there the degree of Globe-trotter, with right thenceforth to affix the initials of honor, "G. T." to his or her name and surely a further degree is conferable upon those who, having trotted the world over for health or relaxation from over-work, finally reach this haven of rest. They will surely come to roost here with the birds of winter passage. And finding here that above all earthly sense of rest and peace, that sense of having left a world of care and chase and noise to the faraway heaven, ought they not to be honored with the title of that Globe-trotter, with the name—alas, of "P. G. T?"

It may be an old story to Pacific dwellers, but to the rest of the world north of the tropics it will be never-ceasing wonder for spring to begin in the first days of December. Yet so it is here. The rains of last month have been succeeded by two weeks already of that elastic spring sunshine which seems to set Nature's heels to fairly dancing with the rhythm of the power and love of life in matter. The new growth of 1886 has already two inches long. The hills and fields of that vernal green which typifies ever-renewing youth and life.

We spent December 3d at the hospitable home of Mr. W. M. Eddy, Santa Barbara's pioneer, and we see the familiar tenor of our own New England associations—sun, sycamore, elder and others—all budding out anew, to wear the rejoicing blossoms of winter and yellow-birds, just as in a New England April or May time. A cold snap occurred in December, "Are these trees awake and their buds up for all day?" we asked. "Yes, indeed," was the reply, "this is our spring in Santa Barbara."

The hotels here are home-like indeed. The absence of trade, to any extent, keeps out that hone-grinding stone-crushing of business pressure. Men and women pass their time together, and make a separate an groups.

The Arlington is acknowledged to be the best hotel on this coast. It is like a gentleman's country-seat, in the midst of gardens and with broad verandas, where its guests live most of the day, out of doors in the sunshine. The eastern veranda is like a sunroom, about 150 feet long and 20 feet broad, filled with the fragrance of roses, geraniums and verbenas.

The hotel table is supplied from Colonel Hollister's big ranch, or farm, with all poultry and some impossibles (to us) fruits, and cream, buttermilk, honey and sweet cider, without extra charge. Nobody lasts long here of the stronger kinds. It is the place to forget them in.

The climate, unlike that of Nice and the South of Europe, does not send any one off as summer approaches. The thermometer don't vary here over fifteen degrees the year round, and there is none of that sharp fall of evening, p. m. chill to the air, so hard for the weak to bear in the Mediterranean climates.

Besides the Los Angeles hotels, there are very many hospitable boarding houses, suitable to all incomes.

We who write this testify in no selfish interest. We have to go back to our world of every-day work. But we want others to find what we have found here, strength and rest, to take back with us. And so we close with the greeting of the good Mission of Santa Barbara fathers to the world outside the cloistered peace of their lives.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Stocks and Bonds.

By Telegraph to The Times.

New York, Jan. 16.—Government bonds dull and steady.

Stocks were firm until about noon, when a general advance took place, and the market closed strong. The strength was largely due to the belief that the Inter-State Commerce Commission would not interfere with the present rates for freight, and to the fact that the railroad companies have agreed to pay 1 per cent. dividends on their preferred stocks. The appearance of a large line of selling orders from the West, however, checked the upward movement, and the market closed weak at the lowest figures of the day. The transactions were a trifle heavier than yesterday, and were largely confined to the list. Northern Pacific preferred and Western Union were the most active stocks, and showed a handsome gain. The receipts of coin at the Custom-house were $1,000,000, and the shipments $1,000,000. The receipts of currency were $1,000,000, and the shipments $1,000,000. The receipts of gold were $1,000,000, and the shipments $1,000,000. The receipts of silver were $1,000,000, and the shipments $1,000,000. The receipts of bullion were $1,000,000, and the shipments $1,000,000. The receipts of specie were $1,000,000, and the shipments $1,000,000. The receipts of foreign exchange were $1,000,000, and the shipments $1,000,000. The receipts of domestic exchange were $1,000,000, and the shipments $1,000,000. The receipts of miscellaneous were $1,000,000, and the shipments $1,000,000. The receipts of total were $1,000,000, and the shipments $1,000,000. John Bell was sentenced by Justice Ranney yesterday to five days in jail for vagrancy. It was not the auctioneer.

Anna Norton, with whom the Sunskinds had a difficulty, was yesterday found guilty by Justice Austin of disturbing the peace. She will be sentenced to-day.

A case against John Nordholt for malicious mischief came up before Justice Austin yesterday. As John was already committed to Stockton as a lunatic, the charge was dismissed.

Mails and Trains.

The long-blockaded trains are pushing toward us as fast as possible. It could not be learned yesterday at what hour of the preceding day they left Albuquerque. If they left at the regular hour—about 11 p. m.—none of them would get here till 9:10 to-night. At the latest advices last night the California Southern train was eight hours late, which would have brought it at about 3 o'clock this morning. It is not improbable that its delay was caused by waiting to catch some of the belated travel. The mails, which come by Deming, are expected to arrive this noon—the first through from the east in nine days.

The Diamonds.

Chas. L. Davis's $100,000 worth of diamonds were placed in Fred. Linde's show-window on Spring street yesterday afternoon, and kept a dense crowd in front of the glass till 7 o'clock, when they were taken out by Mr. Davis to wear. They are "sinners," the largest being as big as a robin's egg. The $50,000 solitaire ring, the $10,000 stud, the $10,000 cuff-buttons, the $7000 watch, etc., made the window as gorgeous as Sinbad's valley, and Davis is a waiting Aladdin when he perambulates with them.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS.

WILMINGTON.

RAILROAD NOTES, NEWS AND THINGS.
Correspondence of the TIMES.

WILMINGTON, Jan. 14.—The Wilmington and Long Beach Railroad still "hangs fire," or, perhaps, it's water, for its roadbed is well "watered" by the high tides and late rains, to say nothing about its "stock." This "railroad business" seems to be quite an "elephant" to the Long Beachers, while, to us Wilmingtonians, it seems more like a "snake;" but whichever animal it proves to be, the probabilities are that San Pedro will take it by the tail and (Rattle) "snake" (Island) it into deep water. For, "men and brethren," San Pedro will eventually "take the cake," and "don't you forget it." "He laughs best who laughs last," and, while we are not expecting a jubilee for Wilmington, we are prognosticating a cheerfulness for San Pedro which will tickle its diaphragm from center to circumference. The Creator has given some things to San Pedro that it has not given to Santa Monica or Long Beach, and these will tell the story.

And now comes the news—see a late issue of the TIMES—that the recently-constructed, and more recently rain and tide-washed, and partly obliterated thereby, "road-bed" of the W. L. B. R. R., is to be abandoned, and Judge Widney's "trail," on which now runs the festive "one-hoss-car," is to be made into a steam-car route by placing iron upon it "within a week, at a cost, of $6000." Perhaps this can be done, but we protest against this innovation upon a long-established usage, and say—

Long Beachers, spare that "trail,"
Whatever else you do;
Keep off your railroad rail,
Your "road-bed" of the W. L. B. R.,
But let it abandoned, and Judge
Widney's "trail," on which now runs the festive "one-hoss-car," is to be made into a steam-car route by placing iron upon it

Whatever else you do;
Keep off your railroad rail,
Your "road-bed" of the W. L. B. R.,
But let it abandoned, and
—and the "trail" be "lost to sight" while
"still to memory dear." Men and brethren of the "Land and Water Company," you are on the "wrong track;" it is not a railroad that you want—it is a balloon. What Long Beach needs is not railroad, horse, tramway or steam car, but an aerial ship driven by "natural gas" in an "air line" from the company's office in Los Angeles direct to the flying fish which surmounts the dome of the post of Long Beach. Nothing short of a balloon sell inflated with "natural gas" will meet the requirements of the case, and boom your real estate the coming season. Don't waste any more money on railroads, try a balloon; "there's millions in it."

Amusements in Wilmington have been nearly as scarce as items of news lately, but the "Wages of Sin" is to be delivered in Wilmington hall to-night, and another play is advertised for next week.

Colonel Deaver has sold out his business to the Marshall Bros., and is at present looking about for something else.

Dr. Buchanon, who has been on the sick list again, has sufficiently recovered to be about.

Business is fairly good, and our merchants report trade as by no means stagnant.

A larger area of hills about Wilmington than usual is being put into grain, and everything betokens a prosperous season, thanks to the late abundant rains.

SANTA ANA.

THE MIDWINTER CITRUS FAIR—IMPROVED ROADS.
Correspondence of the Times.]

SANTA ANA, Jan. 14.—The rainstorm of this present week has been welcomed by all, and has done great good in every way except to the new and old roads in and around our town. Supervisor Ross is making his official position beneficial in the way of improved roadways.

The Midwinter Citrus Fair held here last week was not only a surprise to the many visitors from abroad, but even the dwellers of our valley were surprised at the great variety and magnificence of their productions. Many of the products on exhibition are to be shipped to Chicago and placed on exhibition there for the benefit of those who could not come so far to witness a citrus fair in midwinter. The favorable comments have been heard about the proprietors of the TIMES for their interest in securing so many respectable specimens of products of the valley, and giving so much space in the TIMES and MIRROR to make known to the world the attractions of our valley for homes and its profitable industries.

Pruning and cultivating are the order of the day among vineyardists and orchardists. Most of the vineyards are already pruned. The work was begun from two to three weeks earlier than last year. This seemed to be necessary owing to the rapid growth of weeds. Buyers are already in the field to secure the present orange crop, but owners feel pretty sure that prices must advance above the prices now offered.

Dr. J. H. Clark, of the Presbyterian Church, has tendered his resignation owing to nervous prostration. Dr. Fackler, of Newport, is supplying, for the present, Dr. Clark's place.

Dr. G. S. Bailey, of Pomona, delivered three most interesting lectures at the Baptist Church in this place, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. The subjects were: "The Yellowstone National Park," "Mormonism," "Rome," "The Cave." Owing to the inclement weather the attendance was not large.

Everything looks favorable for good crops another year. NEWTON.

SIERRA MADRE.

THEY HAVE STRUCK IT ON CITRUS FRUITS.
Correspondence of the TIMES.]

SIERRA MADRE, Jan. 10.—About one-half inch of rain has fallen since the storm began Sunday evening. If the season had been made to order it could not have been improved upon possibly, and still it is raining softly as we write. Sierra Madre feels that she did herself proud at the meeting of the Los Angeles County Pomological Society held at Pasadena, January 7th. The display was not large, but the quality was such as to open very wide the eyes of some, who have heretofore regarded this place only as a sage brush colony. We are warranted, now, in asserting that no place in this county or State can produce better citrus fruit than we. The idea is fast losing ground that good oranges can be raised wherever there is plenty of dirt and water.

Sierra Madre certainly has the right soil and climate, and the action of the Sierra Madre Water Company in voting to increase its already abundant water supply, guarantees the last important item in orange culture.

The public school opens this morning after a two weeks' vacation.

Mr. Hosmer has a good-sized real estate scheme in mind now. When fully matured and ready for the public you shall hear of it. B. B.

SAN GORGONIO.

Correspondence of the TIMES.]

ANNADALE, Jan. 12.—The first frost of this year came on New Year's night. A light one but enough to kill tomatoes and potato tops and nothing more. There never was as good a prospect for large crops as now. The rains commenced early in the season and have continued in time to keep all vegetation thrifty. Cattle are improving fast. It is raining, and has been for the last twenty-four hours, and there is no signs of clearing away. The sale of land at Banning on the seventh was postponed on account of cold, windy weather, to the eighth. But few attended, but the land all sold at unexpected high prices, none less than $170 per acre; some much higher. If all lands in Southern California were improved in a like manner thousands of beautiful homes can and will, in the near future, be made. It may look surprising to Eastern readers that land that was bought five years ago at $1.25 and $2.50 per acre should sell, in so short a time, at the above figures. This tells facts worthy of their consideration. In a few more years Southern California, at the present rate of progress of immigration, will be a garden of health, wealth and business, in a land of plenty and to spare.

ORANGE.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.
Correspondence of the TIMES.]

Up to this date nearly an inch and a quarter of water has fallen. Localities differ, however; some received more, others less.

There was a break in the main ditch or canal not far from the old Spanish settlement, last Saturday—the first break that has occurred in that locality for a very long time.

Evening meetings were announced at the Methodist Church for the week, but bad weather caused a postponement.

There is talk of a New England dinner at the hall for February 22d.

Orange packing received a temporary check during the rain, as dealers do not wish to ship fruit while weather and the condition of road are uncertain.

Elder Garvin and his newly-wedded wife are to make their home in Santa Ana for a time.

The Quaker colony has received some excellent additions to its settlers lately.

Fort Street Methodist Church.

Services next Sabbath at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Preaching by Rev. P. F. Bresee, D. D., pastor. Subject in the morning, "The Leadership of Christ;" at night a sermon to young ladies, by request of the Young Ladies' Society of the church.

Ladies' Night.

The Los Angeles Athletic Club gave another of the pleasant "Ladies' Nights" last evening in the gymnasium. Owing to the indisposition of one or two of the athletes, the athletic portion of the entertainment was dispensed with, and the evening was given over to dancing and social intercourse. A large number of ladies and gentlemen was present. Following is the management:

Committee of Arrangements, A. L. Bath, O. H. Lockhart, W. A. Barker.

Floor Manager, A. C. Jones.

RESOLUTIONS.

The Los Angeles Excursionists Express their Sentiments.
Daily Herald, PHOENIX, A. T., JAN. 12.]

At a meeting of the Los Angeles excursionists convened at the residence of F. M. Fowler, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, We, the excursionists from Los Angeles, having been most hospitably entertained by the citizens of Phoenix, and by them shown every attention possible to make our visit pleasant, do in the following resolutions hereby publicly express our gratitude.

Resolved, That we heartily appreciate the special attention shown us by the gentlemen who furnished conveyances and accompanied us to the various portions of the country and pointed out to us the objects of interest.

Resolved, That the friends and families who entertained us at their homes, and contributed so much to our pleasures, have impressed us especially with the fact that their intelligence, hospitality and refinement is equal to any portion of our country.

Resolved, That in our opinion no more beautiful spot exists on the Pacific coast than Salt River Valley, and it is destined in the near future to be, indeed, the Garden of California.

Resolved, That we will do all in our power to disabuse the public mind of the false reports in the East against this portion of Arizona, and will advise our friends and acquaintances that it is a safe and profitable place to make investments.

ALFRED DAY, Chairman.
A. O. DAMON, Secretary.

We, the undersigned, accompanied the excursion to Salt River Valley, which left Los Angeles on the 5th of January, 1886, believe it to be an act of simple justice to the gentlemen who projected the excursion, to state or make public expressions of the results of our investigation.

Through the generosity of the citizens of Phoenix we were furnished with ample accommodations and we were enabled to make a very thorough investigation of the resources of Salt River Valley, and their wonderful extent has agreeably surprised us. We found in all the canals an abundance of water.

The Arizona Canal, which is the largest, is forty miles in length, is a marvel of strength and beauty. At one point, eight miles from the beautiful city of Phoenix, there is a fall of water fifteen feet—a fine mill-site barn; well, windmill, etc. Good to speculate on.

Two dandy papers, the Herald and Gazette, ably conducted and well patronized by the people, are extant here. Two banks and six secret societies, all in a flourishing condition, and other social organizations, all of which add to the pleasure and improvement of the community.

A limited amount of these lands are now offered for sale at from $10 to $15 per acre, owing to location, with water right attached.

LUCKY LORD.

How He Got Away from the Highwaymen.

Saturday's TIMES noted the escape of A. W. Lord from two footpads near the Five-Mile House. The particulars of the affair, as related by Mr. Lord, are thus stated by the Ontario Record:

He left Los Angeles about 5 o'clock on Thursday evening with his spirited span of grays, each of which was accompanied by a colt, and a wagon loaded with turkeys and chickens, and household goods weighing, probably, about 1000 pounds. When about five miles from Los Angeles, he was accosted by two men, one on either side of the road, who both sprang for the wagon. This action frightened the horses, which ran, throwing Mr. Lord from the seat onto the pole. He clung there until the horses had run nearly half a mile, when he was able to get back to his seat and in possession of the lines. He reached El Monte in just two hours from the time he left Los Angeles, the fright the horses received making it almost impossible to hold them in check. On reaching El Monte a medical examination of his condition was made, which revealed the fact that he had sustained no severer injuries than a sprained ankle and several bruises, and he was able to continue his journey the next morning.

The same night a similar attack was made on A. Hinfield in almost the same place, and the ruffians lodged three pistol shots in him before he made his escape. It is reasonable to suppose that Mr. Lord would have fared as badly, or even worse, had he not been thrown from his seat.

The Major is placid.

Major Horace Bell came sailing down street yesterday afternoon, large as life, and twice as dignified. When a TIMES reporter crossed his bows and boarded him with queries about the $20,000 four-in-hand damage suit, the Major smiled grimly. He hadn't studied up the matter at all, and had not even read all the complaint. He felt sure, however, that the suits were brought for ulterior motives. He said "Baldwin hasn't filed his bonds for the suits yet, and I dare him to do it."

A Lunar Rainbow.

The most exquisite lunar rainbow conceivable was visible at 12:30 this morning. The moon lay on a broad grey patch of threadbare clouds, and seemed the center of a broad disc of downy-white opal. This shaded delicately into a ring of orange, and this in turn into a broad belt of rich green. Outside of the green was a regular rainbow circle, the whole forming five distinct rings, whose brightness and definiteness of color were remarkable. The diameter seemed about that of a cart wheel. Three minutes later the rainbow tints were barely discernible; and in five more had vanished utterly.

Orange-Growers' Protective Union.

The Orange-Growers' Protective Union received a dispatch from San Francisco yesterday announcing that thirty-two carloads of oranges have been received in that city during the past few days and nine carloads more are on the way. The market is completely gluted and dealers do not know what to do with the fruit. None of these oranges were shipped through the Union. The Union is now fully organized and ready for business, and parties having oranges to ship are requested to call or address them.

Christmas in California.

Mrs. Lizzie Philpott, a stranger in the city, writes to the TIMES:

"Perhaps only those who remember their first Christmas and New Year in the beautiful city of Los Angeles can have an idea of the novelty of a Christmas in a summer land of flowers and orange blossoms. I am enjoying the winter in this delightful city, and would say to all my friends come and see what a delightful climate and beautiful homes they have here, and you will receive a welcome from this pleasant people."

The Lost Rain.

The rain! the rain! the gentle rain!
It falls upon the springing grain;
And, like a benediction, over
The emerald fields of clover!

The laughing lilies leap to light,
The blushing roses grow more bright;
The dumbest plant, in field or wood,
Grows genial with the genial good.

No lurid, wrathful storm cloud this,
With lightnings hurled, as from th' abyss;
No awful hurricane, where wrath
Leaves death and ruin in its path!

Then blessed be the Heavenly Powers
Who grant this happy land of ours
A gentle, generous, gracious rain,
To fertilize the hill and plain!

MARY ELIZA'S STORY.

She Wants Her Babies Back from Sheridan Waite.

From official correspondence of the S. P. C. A. it appears that Mrs. Mary Eliza Bateman has applied to the Philadelphia society for aid in recovering her children from the clutches of the notorious Order of New Life. The statement of the case is thus presented by Samuel G. Brown, acting Secretary of the Philadelphia organization:

"A man by the name of Sheridan Waite, and an associate whose name was Dr. Horace Bowen, were at the head of a society called 'The Overshadowing Power of God,' or 'The Order of the New Life' (formerly of Vineland, N. J.), and they told her they would like to have her children to bring them up as 'Priests of the Lord.' Some trouble occurred at Vineland, and she said Waite and Bowen went to South Pasadena, where they organized a similar society. They desired her and her children to go with them to that institution, which they did in June last. On arriving there, she found things different from what was represented by these men; and she was, in consequence of their misrepresentations, very unhappy, and wanted to return to Philadelphia. Sheridan Waite came back with her to Chicago, leaving the children behind. They left Chicago for New York, and at the first station this side [east] of Chicago, Mr. Waite left her, and she came on to Philadelphia alone, since which time she has not seen Waite. He had represented to her that he was going to Europe, through the country, and after teaching her shorthand she was to accompany him and report his lectures. Previous to leaving Chicago, during these various transactions, Waite and Bowen obtained from her about $1000 in money. The children are: Richard D. Bateman aged 8 years, and Stephen G. Bateman aged 5 years."

It will be remembered by readers of the TIMES that Bowen denied that the sum was $9000.

PEOPLE'S STORE.

Interesting to Owners of Horses and Cattle.

Blood will tell, but good health and a fine coat are essential in making horses useful. The trained horses and their fine appearance has attracted the attention of our people to such a extent that Mr. McCue has become one of the prominent objects of attention in our city; and, we presume, with profit to him, as he has established a laboratory at Grimade's Drug Store, where several men and boys are employed in putting up Condition Powders. Mr. McCue says that Los Angeles is the bonanza city for merit, and that his Condition Powders have four times the demand in consequence. If the appearance of his horses are any guide to go by, his Condition Powders must have wonderful merit. As many of our horses are coughing in the streets, owners of horses will do well to commence the use of this powder in time and prevent sickness among the animals.
